

Essential Guidelines for Professional Society Boards

© American Translators Association 2018. All rights reserved.

Follow these essential guidelines of parliamentary procedure to take the pain out of your meetings, hold productive discussions, and serve your professional society better.

► BASICS

A quorum must be present for business to be done. Usually a quorum means a majority (more than half) of the voting board members in office.

The chair runs the meeting in the service of the board. He is not the “boss” but serves as a facilitator, helping the board to hold free and fair discussion and make good decisions.

On small boards (up to about 12 members) it is acceptable to have discussion before proposing a main motion (a proposal for the board to take action).

If a board member makes a motion to amend the main motion, it is discussed and voted on before the main motion. After amending a motion, a vote must be taken on the main motion as amended.

After discussion, the chair calls for the vote and announces the result. The motion passes when a majority of those voting vote in favor, unless state law or your bylaws require a higher vote. This is different from the requirement for a quorum.

If someone “calls the question,” the chair must take a vote on whether to vote now or continue discussion. It takes a 2/3 vote to cut off discussion.

➔ over

► DISCUSSION

All board members have equal rights, privileges and obligations. This means that discussion is not a conversation, but follows some important rules:

- The chair recognizes speakers in turn.
- No one may speak a second time until everyone who wishes to do so has spoken once.
- Interrupting is not allowed.

Board members must be courteous and respectful. They may not make inappropriate remarks such as personal remarks, insulting language, or comments that are irrelevant.

If a board member breaks the rules, the chair may correct him, or another board member may raise a point of order. The chair rules as to whether the point is correct, or not. A board member who disagrees with a ruling of the chair may appeal it. If another member seconds the appeal, the board decides.

The minority must be provided equal opportunity to debate, even if their views are unpopular. However, the decision of the majority voting at a meeting is the decision of the board as a whole.

► OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

Know your state law about voting requirements for boards of professional societies, and read your bylaws.

Proxy voting is not allowed on professional society boards.

In most states, email voting is not allowed on boards of professional societies, unless certain very specific procedures are followed for each vote. Telephone meetings are acceptable as long as all participants can heard and be heard.

Under Robert's Rules of Order, members of the society who are not board members may be excluded from board meetings. We recommend allowing members to observe board meetings except in special cases where an executive (secret) session is necessary.

Essential Guidelines for Boards of Professional Societies

© Jurassic Parliament 2018. All rights reserved.

TERMS OF USE

This article is provided for personal use. The user may not modify, publish, license, create derivative works from, transfer or sell any information or services contained in this publication or obtained from our website, or use the content of our website for public or commercial purposes, including any text, images, audio or video, without the written permission of Jurassic Parliament. Jurassic Parliament reserves the right to update our website at any time without notice to you. If you would like to use or quote this material for any purpose other than expressly as authorized herein, contact the Jurassic Parliament office.

DISCLAIMER

This material is provided for general educational purposes. Jurassic Parliament makes no representation about the suitability of the information contained in the documents and related graphics published as part of these services for any purpose. All such documents and related graphics are provided "as is" without warranty of any kind. Jurassic Parliament hereby disclaims all warranties and conditions with regard to this information, including all warranties and conditions of merchantability, whether express, implied or statutory, fitness for a particular purpose, title and non-infringement. Nothing written here constitutes legal or business advice. Readers with specific questions are advised to seek an appropriate credentialed authority to address their issues.

P.O. Box 77553, Seattle, WA 98177

TEL 206.542.8422 | EMAIL info@jurassicparliament.com

www.jurassicparliament.com